Master of Arts in Media Literacy and Digital Culture

The Master of Arts in Media Literacy and Digital Culture teaches students the skills necessary to critically analyze the intersections of media and culture while fostering their creativity and social awareness. The two concentration options explore the relationship between media, culture, and society: Children, Health, & Media and Media & Social Justice.

Program highlights include:

Hands-on Curriculum:

Students have ample opportunity to produce media literacy materials for a variety of audiences and organizations, and build a personal, state-of-the-art portfolio.

Career Preparation for the Digital Age:

The MLDC curriculum is designed to ensure students receive substantial real-world experience through Capstone courses supervised by expert faculty.

Blended Courses and Flexible Scheduling:

Our two plans of study include a one-year (full-time) or two-year (part-time) curriculum completion pathway.

Two Concentration Options

Children, Health, & Media

Focuses on the impact of media on the minds, bodies, and relationships of children, teens, and tweens.

Media & Social Justice

Focuses on the role media plays in reinforcing or challenging inequality in social and institutional relationships.
