

When the first woman president moves into the White House, in addition to thanking her campaign workers, family, friends and the voters, she'll thank the many women throughout history who paved the way. As lawyers, judges, senators, congresswomen, diplomats, governors, and more, women have changed the face of American politics over the past century, making it easier for the women of the future. Among these historic women are five who have run for the presidency: Margaret Chase Smith in 1964, Shirley Chisholm, 1972, Patricia Schroeder, 1988, Elizabeth Dole, 2000, and Hillary Clinton, 2008.
